

Noboru Sakata
General Manager
Wireless Engineering Division
NEC America, Inc.

Noboru Sakata is the General Manager of the Wireless Engineering Division at NEC America, Inc. in Irving, TX. Mr. Sakata brings more than eighteen years of experience in the wireless cellular communications industry to NEC.

In his role as General Manager, Mr. Sakata is responsible for working with the executive management team to develop and communicate corporate and product strategy communications including strategic planning, product planning and development, marketing, sales, and customer support.

During his career, Mr. Sakata has gained extensive leadership and digital cellular technology experience from his assignments overseas and in the U.S. Previously, Mr. Sakata served as Manager, Product Planning in the Mobile Terminals Division at NEC Corporation in Japan. During this time, he was responsible for the global management of product planning and marketing for mobile communications products.

Mr. Sakata earned his degree in Electrical Engineering from Waseda University in Tokyo, Japan.